

Abstract of the Disclosure:

An integrated circuit includes a data processing unit, a buffer memory, and a setting memory. The buffer memory performs the function of registers for storing data for the processing unit. The buffer memory is connected to the setting memory. The setting memory can be written to through the buffer memory.

GLM/tk